Discover the secret of true discretion

The particularly small Insio models sit, depending on the size of the ear canal, so deep in the ear canal that they are practically invisible. Thanks to the continuous development of the individual components, we are now able to manufacture Insio hearing aids that are even more discreet than before.

Insio is available in different colors depending on the model. For the smallest model, which sits deep in the ear canal, black is recommended as it is the most inconspicuous.

Six skin tones are available for the slightly larger and more powerful versions to ensure the best possible discretion.

A true technical masterpiece

Insio plays in the highest league of its class in terms of technology.

They support conversations in noisy environments with a feature that is unmatched on the market: the binaural directional microphone.

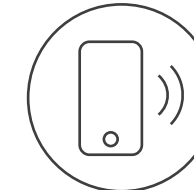

It preferentially picks up conversation partners in front, thus highlights them from a noisy background. With the premium models featuring two microphones, it is even possible to highlight multiple conversation partners with a group from background noise. Even people positioned to the side and in motion.

Another outstanding feature automatically detects and reduces echo effects, making conversations easier even in larger rooms with parquet or tile floors.

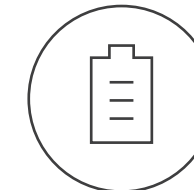

The extended input dynamics ensure crystal-clear transmission, even in very loud environments.

Experience Freedom with ultimate comfort

Even our smallest Insio in-ear hearing aids give you the freedom to easily control the volume and special hearing programs via the Signia app or remote control.

The compact charging case – compatible with the battery-powered model – gives you even more independence, providing up to three full battery charges – ideal for a life on the go.
