More than just FirstFit – Easy objective measurements

In theory, the daily use of REM measurements is a desirable practice. However, once the final exams for apprentice or master craftsman have been passed, these measurements are rarely used.

With this workshop, we aim to provide fresh inspiration for implementing REM measurements as an integral part of the fitting process. We wish to focus on clearly demonstrating the benefits of these measurements and show that this form of fitting can be less time-consuming than many assume.

In addition to the fundamental knowledge, supplementary solutions will be demonstrated to holistically optimise the quality of the selected hearing aid fitting, for example with regard to the issue of occlusion.

The measurement solutions within the Affinity Suite serve as the basis for these measurements.
